ARRIVAL INFORMATION

Staff are required to arrive at Fresno Airport or Fresno Train Station. Staff will be picked up by a member of senior staff on arrival and taken to camp. Staff will also be driven to either location upon their departure from camp. This is at no additional cost to the participant. The drive up the mountain to camp from Fresno is around 90 minutes.

Fresno Airport

Participants should give their arrival itinerary to Celine and a senior member of staff will be waiting at Fresno Airport.

Fresno Train Station

An alternative and often cheaper way of getting to Fresno is by train. You can fly into Los Angeles (LAX) or San Francisco (SFO) and get the train to Fresno if it's convenient.

By flying into a major city, it may knock a significant amount of money off your flight, although bear in mind that you will have to get to the train station from the airport and it's more than likely that you would need to stay the night in a hotel before you continue the next leg of your journey. I highly recommend not staying in a motel if you land in LA (they're kind of gross). If the train is a convenient option for you, Amtrak trains are very comfortable, spacious and have free WiFi. Again, just make sure that Celine has your arrival information and somebody will be dressed in a Montecito-blue t-shirt waiting for you.

If you have any questions about arrival in the States and getting to camp, you can contact Celine via the email address provided.
